Gabriel,

Very much so. Minister Moore will likely come out to say it will not approve this proposed deal given market concentration. The big question is does he do so next week or take 2-3 weeks to make his pronouncement.

I have not spoken to government today (Good Friday) but as of 3 days ago their view was that any proposed Telus-Mobilicity transaction would receive same response as previous attempts.

Thanks Bruce, this seems consistent with the previous posture. Where you able to check on this today. Any sense on how they plan to defend it's position. Will their approach be legal and public opinion??

Gabriel,

The Harper Government remains clear that it will not approve this deal/transfer. Telus is well aware of Ottawa's position. This just sets up the legal battle in my opinion.
